About Jug Bay Wetlands Sanctuary

Jug Bay Wetlands Sanctuary is located 20 miles east of Washington DC and 18 miles south of Annapolis. The Sanctuary is in the tidal reaches of the Patuxent River, and consists of 1,700 acres of open water, tidal freshwater marshes, forested wetlands, upland and riparian forest, creeks, meadows, pine and sand barrens, and fields, which provide safe habitat to numerous plants and wildlife.

The Sanctuary is one of three components of the Maryland Chesapeake Bay National Estuarine Research Reserve (CBNERR) – a research, stewardship, and education program administered jointly by the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA), Maryland's Department of Natural Resources, and Anne Arundel County.

Our mission is to increase awareness, understanding, and appreciation of estuarine and other natural ecosystems and their conservation through outdoor education, research, stewardship, and volunteering.
